

Reds Convinced Victory Over Rebels Demands Definite Foreign Aid

Recognition of Franco by Italy and Germany Struck Death Blow at Madrid Cause; New Attack is Feared.

HEAVY FIGHTING

Madrid Defenders Expect New Attack Against Capital; Strong Opposition Awaits Fascists.

(By The Associated Press.)

Hendaye, France, Dec. 17.—Uncensored reports from war-torn Madrid quoted reliable sources today as having said the Madrid government is convinced that only with definite foreign aid can it defeat the Spanish Fascists.

Recognition of Gen. Francisco Franco's insurgent regime by Italy and Germany struck a death blow at the Madrid cause, its leaders felt, just at a time when the city's unexpected defenses seemed to be turning the tide in its favor.

Most of the informed leaders in Madrid, the uncensored reports said, feel that Russia, acting alone, cannot carry the role of Madrid's savior any longer.

The marines of France in not becoming involved is one of the major disappointments to the workers' class which, from the beginning of the war, believed it could depend upon the French proletariat for aid.

While anxious over the adverse international situation, the government of Premier Francisco Largo Caballero is increasingly concerned over the menace of a syndicalist-socialist explosion which has been avoided thus far only through exercise of the greatest tact with frequent concessions to the syndicalists.

Government Powerless
It is a well known fact in Madrid, the reports declared, that the government, despite its claim of firm control in the situation, is powerless to dominate the anarchist elements within the National Workers Federation.

The F. A. I. (Federation of Iberian Anarchists) ignores government-made laws, decrees and ordinances, and has evidenced no respect for military men at the head of the government forces.

Despite the government's orders that prisoners of war must be respected and suspected rightists must be arrested only by official police, there have been few attempts to interfere with the anarchists' ideas of stern treatment, the reports said.

Political prisoners are shot at the rate of 25 a day in Madrid, the reports declared, from 50 to 75 daily in Valencia and from 30 to 50 a day in Barcelona.

Foreigners look in vain for the concentration camps for prisoners of war.

No More Prisoners
One foreigner was told bluntly by an anarchist leader:

"Take prisoners when food is so short? That would be foolish. Moreover we don't want to use men for guard detail who could be fighting on the front."

A military commander told another foreigner:

"I can do nothing with the anarchists. They fight when and where they please—if they please. They don't know what discipline is. If I should attempt to enforce orders I would suffer the same fate as others in my predicament—I would be shot."

Even the anarchist leader, Buenaventura Durruti, indisputably a brave man and courageous leader, was powerless to control his own men.

He was killed in action and buried as a hero, but there are persistent rumors he was shot by his own men for insisting on an attack.

Adding to the seriousness of the Madrid situation, the reports declared, was increasing troop desertions.

One foreigner was informed on the highest authority that the whole general staff of General Pozas disappeared en route from Madrid to Valencia, and 20 experts from the exchange control board left Madrid for Valencia but never arrived.

Officers have charged that whole militia units mysteriously disappear and there have been instances of entire battalions going over to the enemy, the accounts said.

New Attack Feared

Madrid, Dec. 17 (AP)—Bombed Madrid feared today its Fascist besiegers would unleash another infantry attack following an air raid in which at least 20 persons were killed and 100 wounded.

About 100 government planes took the air against the invaders and, of these, said a shot down four enemy planes and a bomber.

Heavy fighting continued far into the night, centering around Rodilla del Monte and the University City section.

Insurgent Field Headquarters at Salamanca announced Fascist troops had captured Rodilla del Monte after heavy fighting in which 42 soldiers in the defending international brigade were killed.

War in 6th Month

As the bloody civil war entered its sixth month, leaders of Madrid's defense said they were expecting Gen. Francisco Franco, insurgent chief, to send his Moorish Mohammedan and

Central Hudson to Reduce Its Annual Revenue $202,000

The Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation announced today that it has filed with the Public Service Commission rate changes which will reduce its annual revenue by $202,000.

According to E. R. Acker, president, the changes will be made on February 1, 1937, subject to the approval of the Public Service Commission at Albany. These changes will be effective throughout the entire territory which the corporation serves. They have been made possible by recent economies, particularly the recent refunding of the corporation's preferred stock at a lower rate of interest and by the rapid growth in usage of electric service.

Of the $202,000 reduction in revenue, $112,000 will be in revenue from residence customers. Under the proposed rates the bills of all residential customers in Kingston using in excess of 35 kilowatt hours per month will be reduced, those using less than 35 kilowatt hours having been reduced last year. Under the new rate electricity will be available at 3 1/2¢ per kilowatt hour after 35 kilowatt hours and at 2¢ per kilowatt hour after 150 kilowatt hours a month. These changes will render it possible for householders to make fuller use of electric service at lower prices than ever before.

Under the proposed changes the rate applicable to stores, offices and other commercial establishments will be reduced, principally to customers who use their lights and appliances to only a limited extent. The proposed changes in this rate will also render it more economical for many customers who are now taking service for lighting and power through two separate meters to take electric service for their entire requirements through one meter in the future. It is estimated that the annual reduction in revenue from commercial customers will amount to $43,000 a year.

To assist in re-establishing industry in the Central Hudson region on a sound basis, the power rates for industrial customers, such as factories, will be reduced.

Edrad's Feminine "Fan Mail" Compliments Him on "Romantic Gesture"; 800 Seek Jobs

Ennsfeld, Austria, Dec. 17 (AP)—The Duke of Windsor, suffering again from severe headaches, received 6,000 letters from feminine admirers today applauding his "romantic gesture" in giving up the British throne for Wallis Warfield Simpson.

Night hundred of the writers also asked the British prince for jobs, most of them expressing a preference for secretarial work.

Reliable sources disclosed the duke suffered last night from another attack of severe head pains, which some said might be connected with his car accident.

Attendees at the castle of Baron Eugene De Rothschild, where the former ruler is a guest, emphasized, however, the duke "is not really ill."

They said he intends to continue his golf games and may go on a hunting trip.

The presence of the abdicated monarch brought a new bustle of excitement to this little Austrian village where spectators thronged in the hope of catching a glimpse of the man who renounced a throne for love.

Edward sat up late last night listening to a British radio broadcast over his high power receiving set with his special antenna.

In golf and an evening game of bridge the former monarch displayed much of his old time gaiety, said those who had access to the castle of Baron Rothschild where Edward is a guest.

The Baroness Rothschild, it was learned, last evening won Edward over to her suggestion that he make a Christmas shopping tour in Vienna and perhaps even visit some of the night clubs in which he and Wallis Warfield Simpson spent so many carefree hours during previous visits to Austria.

Persons who come and go from the castle said today his apparent mental depression of the first few days of his self-imposed exile was created by doubts as to whether his best course was to meet Mrs. Simpson or to

Salt Lake City, Dec. 17 (AP)—Fears of heavy snow would erase the most tangible clue to seven persons given up for dead aboard a lost skyliner, searchers struggled toward the scene today on horseback, snowshoes and skis.

Fifteen planes mobilized here to aid in the quest for the Western Air Express transport missing since early Tuesday were made ready for momentary call.

"Subsequently relatively improved visibility permitted six of the searching planes to get into the air. Approximately 500 men were in the ground searching crews."

Clearing skies in the picturesque valley of Great Salt Lake stretching north from the mountainous center of the search gave hope the planes, grounded most of yesterday by rain and fog, could carry out their organized part of the search.

But it was upon hundreds of heavily-clothed men toiling up opposite sides of a ridge below 11,200-foot Lone Peak that the anxious eyes of those following the hunt were chiefly fixed.

On a ride running down from Lone Peak, extending between Draper and Alpine, J. L. Hess, forest service foreman, found yesterday what he believed to be "traces" of the lost plane.

The blizzard which prevented Hess from following what he described as a possible trail starting with a broken tree and torn up earth "where a plane might have struck" abated early today.

Still, snow on the mountain levels was reported "from two feet deep up to the waist."

Leaders of the ground parties pressed forward on horses. Their plan was to proceed as far as the horses could carry them in the deepening snow up the slopes; then dismount, turn to snowshoes or skis where practicable.

One official who declined to be quoted was dubious as to whether Hess' clue would "pan out."

He said if the plane had struck the mountainside "some metal should have been left lying about," but he added:

"We aren't passing up any beta. The plane seems to be in that area someplace—in fact, in a region only of about six square miles—and Hess' hunch is as good as anybody's."

The five men and two women occupants of the lost liner already had been given up for dead by officials.

George Keyser, Jr., traffic manager for Western Air Express, led one group of skiers. He emphasized, however, that the difficulties were great—owing to the new-fallen snow.

Changes in Tax Program By President Are Under Consideration Today

Business Improvement, It is Hoped, Will Contribute to Balancing Federal Budget by 1938; Conference at White House.

APPROPRIATIONS

House Committee Men See Possibility of Increased Appropriations to Run Government.

Washington, Dec. 17 (AP)—Chairman Harrison (D-Miss.) of the Senate finance committee said today a conference with President Roosevelt today that administrative changes in the tax structure were under consideration.

He added that with further improvement in business it was hoped the federal budget could be balanced by 1938.

The sun-tanned Mississippi plan, who talked over the general financial outlook with the President together with Chairman Doughton (D-N.C.) of the House ways and means committee, reiterated there would be no increased taxes proposed at the coming session of Congress.

"But," he said, "we are studying the situation with a view to eliminating miscellaneous and nuisance taxes where the administration cost is out of all proportion to the revenue collected."

Corporation Tax Change
With respect to the undistributed corporation earnings tax, Harrison told reporters congressional tax experts were exploring the possibilities of modifying this tax so it would not fall too heavily on debt-ridden corporations and those using funds for enlarging plants and for new construction.

The President also arranged for other conferences today with legislative and departmental chiefs to complete preparations for the opening of Congress.

Among those invited to the White House after the tax parley were Postmaster General Farley, Speaker Bankhead, Robert Fechner, director of the Civilian Conservation Corps; Secretary Ickes, Secretary Mendenhall, and Mariner S. Eekles, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

Before the tax conference Secretary Roper and Assistant Secretary Oscar L. Chapman of the Interior Department were White House callers.

Authoritative reports circulated today that the President would start his second term without a general shakeup of his cabinet.

Except for a possible change in the secretary of war post, some officials said they felt there would be no cabinet changes at least for the time being.

Increased Appropriations
Washington, Dec. 17 (AP)—House appropriations committee men spoke today of a possibility Congress might have to increase instead of trim appropriations for ordinary government expenses.

They have not given up hope of taking a big stride toward a balanced budget by paring emergency expenditures.

They said, however, any such slashes might be offset partially by larger appropriations for departments whose functions have been enlarged.

As long as we keep adding agencies and functions," said Chairman Buchanan (D-Tex.), "we've got to appropriate for them, and we can't cut down."

He said the Treasury-Postoffice appropriation for the fiscal year beginning July 1 might reach $2,500,000,000—some $100,000,000 more than the original sum for the current fiscal year.

Rep. Taber of New York, ranking Republican member, who has been attending subcommittee hearings on this appropriation, said:

"I haven't seen any signs of cutting down expenses so far."

Part of the prospective increase in the Treasury-Postoffice fund, Buchanan indicated, may be attributed to placing the alcohol administration in the Treasury and to giving the department added duties in connection with the social security program.

Buchanan said he expected $500,000,000 would be needed to pay the government's share of old age pensions under the social security act.

GENERAL CRAIG SELECTED TO HEAD INAUGURAL PARADE

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP)—General Malin Craig, chief of staff of the army, was selected today as grand marshal of the inaugural parade on January 20.

Aside from the 36 state governors, the parade will be composed entirely of military units, with the entire corps of the United States military and naval academies in the marching columns.

The line of march was curtailed because cold weather is expected. Heretofore the inauguration has been on March 4, but the "Game Duck" amendment to the constitution advanced the date.

Waco, Tex., Dec. 17 (AP)—A Waco county jury today convicted Edith Maxwell, 22-year-old former school teacher, of second degree murder in the death of her father, Tracy Maxwell, and fixed her punishment at 20 years.

Fight for Kai-Shek Release Spreads in Wide Circle

Wrath of Commons Falls Upon British Broadcasting Group

London, Dec. 17 (AP)—The wrath of militant members of the House of Commons fell today on the British Broadcasting Company for the Archbishop of Canterbury's recent radio denunciation of former King Edward VIII and his friends.

Members who disapproved the censure of the head of the Church of England prepared to explore every detail of arrangements by the B. B. C. a government monopoly, for broadcasts concerning the now Duke of Windsor's abdication.

Their fire, however, was expected to center on the prime's address Sunday, after Windsor had gone into voluntary exile, which was broadcast over B. B. C. facilities. The whole issue was prepared for general debate, possibly tonight, after inquiries into other phases of the B. B. C.'s activities.

The Archbishop provoked a wide controversy by his rebuke of the former ruler for desiring to wed twice-divorced Wallis Warfield Simpson as a "violation of Christian principles of marriage," and of his friends as "people whose standards and ways of life are alien to all the best instincts and traditions of his people."

M. P.'s opposed to the archbishop's stand declared they would try to uncover the secret details surrounding Edward's farwield broadcast.

What They Wish to Know
They said they wished to know: Why did the B. B. C. network shut down immediately after the archbishop's speech?

Were Edward's and the archbishop's speeches made after consultation with government officials?

Did the B. B. C. demand—as is customary for all radio programs—a preview of their messages?

Other members declared all programs during the empire's constitutional crisis were "too mournful and sad," and should have been brighter in order to help Britons take their minds off their troubles.

Constituents kept a steady stream of letters, mostly critical of the archbishop's broadcast, in the members' mail. Laborite Josiah Wedgwood, announced his determination to raise the B. B. C. issue tonight when the general debate on its affairs is scheduled to come up.

Although there were outspoken objection to the archbishop's talk, he had supporters in the Commons and a third group of members preferred to let the matter pass.

Champions of the B. B. C. were concerned that the government agency's opponents might use the issue for blocking renewal of the corporation's charter, which expires December 31.

Ready to "Bury Hatchet."

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York indicated today he was ready to "bury the hatchet" with the Roosevelt administration during the approaching session of Congress.

In an interview he would support the New Deal measures if they appeared to be "what the people want." "I'm willing to do what the people want once I find out what that is," he said.

"The election convinced me many of the New Deal measures are popular." Although a Democrat, Copeland frequently described himself as "Not a New Dealer."

Treasury Receipts.

Washington, Dec. 17 (AP)—The position of the treasury on December 15: Receipts, $505,724,121.84; expenditures, $130,172,759.35; balance, $1,822,717,523.23. Customs receipts for the month, $20,527,569.23. Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1), $1,855,527,532.88; expenditures, $1,153,914,404.35, including $1,291,848,634.89 of emergency expenditures; excess of receipts, $703,613,128.53; gross debt, $34,229,084,171.91, an increase of $326,600,344.75 over the previous day. Gold assets, $11,221,542,443.92.

34 Held For Trial

Tokyo, Dec. 17 (AP)—Fifty-four self-styled "God-seekers" army and navy men were held today for trial, charged with plotting three years ago to massacre all cabinet members by an air bombardment and establish an ancient system of direct rule from the throne. They were ordered to be tried by the supreme court, which for the first time in Japanese history will hear a case which has not gone through a lower court.

Tucson, Ariz., Dec. 17 (AP)—A man Deputy Sheriff Kennedy Yarell identified as Thomas Fortune Ryan II, 26, known as a wealthy New York family, started a 20 day jail sentence here today for failure to pay taxes allegedly due three Tucson nurses. The man, who said he was Thomas Fortune Ryan II when arrested 10 days ago, pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced under that name.

Policemen Cancel Annual Ball Date Set for January 29

The Kingston Patrolmen's Association will hold a special meeting Friday evening at the city hall to discuss the question of omitting the annual police ball this season, and decide what steps shall be taken toward holding the ball next season.

The reason for omitting the ball this season is due to the fact that the Knights of Columbus ball will be held on Friday, February 5, and the Knights believed that two balls held within a week's time of each other would not pay. The police ball date had been fixed as January 29.

Last season the same unfortunate situation arose in regard to the date of the annual Shriner's ball and the police ball, and as a result the Shriner's did not hold the annual ball last season.

A solution of the problem of dates it would seem would be for the various organizations that hold annual balls in the Municipal Auditorium to get together at an early date in the summer months and arrange the dates on which the various functions are to be held, according to an official in one of the organizations that sponsor these annual events.

With the coming of the police ball for this season it is expected that the Patrolmen's Association will discuss the question of when the annual ball should be held next season.

STRAY BLACK KITTEN ADOPTS CITY HALL FOLKS

A stray black kitten wearing a collar with bells attached drifted into the city hall the other day, and since then has made itself right at home. The kitten, which is evidently someone's pet, has adopted the police department, where it may be found at all hours of the day and night. Anyone who has lost a kitten may call at police headquarters.

Has Inmate Captured

Rome, Dec. 17 (AP)—Italian press dispatches reported today from Addis Ababa that Ras Imru, former powerful governor of Golljam Province and cousin of Emperor Haile Selassie, had been captured. The Ras was declared officially by Italian commanders to be the last of the major chieftains still resisting Italian occupation of the East African kingdom. Reports said hundreds of miles of new Ethiopian territory have fallen into Italian control in the so-called "second campaign" in territory already described as the Italian empire.

Shaken the Nation

He (Chang) has shaken the nation to its foundations," the Yuan declared in a statement. "So enormous is his crime it cannot be expiated should he die ten thousand deaths."

Loyal forces, organized into an expedition to suppress the Shensi province rebellion, were reported engaged in intermittent clashes with Marshal Chang's soldiers in the mountain passes which form the gateway from eastern China into the interior province situated in the great plain area.

The nation's highest authorities announced the rebellious marshal had released General Chiang Ting-wen, trusted lieutenant and fellow captive of the dictator, to convey a personal message to Minister of War Ho Ying-chin, commanding the punitive expedition against Sian.

At the same time the foreign office reiterated the generalissimo "remains safe" and T. T. Li, director of intelligence, announced "Chang Hsueh-liang broadcasted a statement that protection has been afforded the generalissimo."

It was believed the rebellious Marshal Chang, who seized China's dictator and 20 other dignitaries in a sudden coup d'etat last week at Sian, had continued his terms for settlement of the mutiny in his message to the minister of war.

Elder in Flight

Earlier in the day James Elder, Chang's American adviser, flew to Nanking for Sian, mountainous stronghold of the mutiny in remote Shensi province.

Although Elder was held thronged by officials of the central government, it was learned he had passed the way for the consideration of the proposals Chiang Ting-wen was making.

Following the conference between Elder and Nanking officials, a government spokesman said:

"One thing is certain. It would be worth the dignity of the government to negotiate with Marshal Chang's whom we consider a bandit."

"Chang's assurances for his personal safety but the government will

NEW STATE CHAIRMAN.

William S. Murray, chemist, engineer, Republican leader of Oneida county and trustee of Colgate University, who was unanimously elected chairman of the Republican State Committee, is quoted as declaring himself in favor of not only social security but for measures of similar character. During the last session of the Legislature Chairman Murray was in favor of progressive legislation and he is regarded by his supporters as a liberal.

One of the first moves to be made by the new chairman is to contact personally every Republican county chairman in a state-wide tour designed to promote a greater party harmony. Getting around to iron out difficulties and the stand on liberalization of Republican policies may augur well for relative harmony in the forthcoming session of the Legislature. Whether Chairman Murray, who obviously was a compromise candidate, will be able to bring the forces together in a whole-hearted endeavor to regain its high position with the electorate remains to be seen.

Mr. Murray was elected chairman of Oneida county three years ago and has shown tact, judgment, energy and common sense in his leadership in local politics.

MUSIC FOR NERVES

A commuter dashing through the Grand Central Terminal in New York city the other day had an experience which caused him to write a letter to the Times. There was music in the great railroad station as he was passing through. He wrote:

I don't know who supplied it or for what purpose. It was soft and slow. It had astonishing effect upon the throngs in their mad scramble to get to their destinations. But faces relaxed and gave way to smiles. Consideration and courtesy were plainly marked. An entirely new feeling was brought about by this new tonic for weary New York nerves.

He suggests not that there be soft and slow music in all railroad stations, but that good music be available in public buildings at certain times so that "young Mr. Knickerbocker may step in for a few minutes during the day and relax." He cites all the cultural things a city provides for its citizens—museums, art galleries, libraries, zoos, aquariums. He cites the efforts it makes to check unnecessary noises. Why not another service—good music to restore tired, irritable nerves to calm?

Something might be done with such an idea in any community. A quarter or half hour of organ music in a church at lunch time. Possibly brief musical programs in museums or libraries at certain times or on certain days. It is worth considering. But much will depend on the kind of music played.

WAGE IMPROVEMENT.

Cheerful news comes from the steel industry, which used to be regarded as backward, with long hours and low wages. Current payrolls are now $1,000,000 a month above the 1925 average, and they go to 521,000 employees, 15 per cent more than the industry had in 1925. Hourly wages averaging 66.3 cents were raised to 73 cents on November 15.

The example should have a wholesome effect on some other industries which have not yet caught the new spirit. It isn't merely a matter of generosity, either. Hard-headed business men are now agreeing with the economists that liberal wages are the biggest factor in creating and sustaining prosperity. Good wages make good business as surely as rain makes rivers.

TAX INFORMATION

Taxpayers don't have all the grief in connection with taxes. Take it from the tax administrators of 25 states who met in conference recently in Indianapolis. They discussed at length the difficulties they meet in seeking public favor and cooperation. The way to promote better feeling and produce better tax collections, they finally agreed, probably was to give the taxpayer more complete information. Taxes loom large in the public thought, but as a rule few individuals know exactly all the taxes they pay, how the total is divided among taxing units, or how the money is used after collection. They ought to know all these things. Tax bills should be clear and informative. There should be as little indirect taxation as possible, and what there is should be talked about plainly.

Some of this work is up to the public itself, working through its elected representatives. Some of it is up to tax offices and administrators, where much could be accomplished by more businesslike methods and more honest publicity.

USEFULNESS IN CITIZENS

Another alien seeking American citizenship recently has failed to receive it because he was opposed to bearing arms. The judge rebuked him sternly, saying those who refuse to bear arms "are of no use in this country." "Your citizenship is denied once and for all time," he added. "If you aren't willing to bear arms, we don't want you." That is pretty hard on a lot of conscientious objectors who remained respected citizens during the World War. It also places military service far above other essential and patriotic services to country.

Many Americans agree with the judge. There are others who disapprove such decisions. The latter feel that if war actually came, the problem of the objectors could be met somehow by getting them to work at other important tasks. Perhaps opinion on this point will not be clarified and settled until the people who are opposed to bearing arms solve the war question by making it unnecessary for anybody to bear arms.

INFLUENZA—FLU

As we read about the great epidemic of cholera, yellow fever, small pox, of former years, many of us may fail to realize that the influenza or flu epidemic of 1918 and 1919 caused more deaths throughout the world than any of the above scourges.

Fortunately the flu that is still common in all countries does not seem to be as virulent or cause as many deaths as that of the epidemic of 1918-19. It was my privilege to be senior medical officer of a large military hospital at that time and the knowledge each night that a number of the patients would pass away before morning was most disheartening. One bright spot in our treatment, however, was the taking of a small quantity of blood from the outgoing patients who had recovered from influenza and injecting it into the most serious cases. The results were most gratifying; the extremely high temperatures came down rapidly.

Now despite the fact that the epidemic occurred nearly twenty years ago, was studied, and flu is still studied by hundreds of research physicians throughout the world, no specific cure has been found for flu. While this may sound discouraging, it is really not so when we remember that proper treatment of the individual symptoms prevents the broncho-pneumonia and failing heart that caused most of the deaths.

For instance we found in 1918 that the "weaker" individuals who were removed to hospital and to bed the first or even the second day of the attack generally made a good recovery, whereas of the number of the "strong" fellows "who weren't going to let a little touch of the flu put them down," and had to enter hospital after fighting flu off for three or more days, a large percentage went on to broncho-pneumonia and a number of them died.

The lesson is thus very plain—go to bed on the appearance of the first symptoms—cold in the head, sneezing, sore throat, dry cough, feeling of depression, pain at upper part of breastbone, in small of back and throughout body. Once in bed the heart gets its best chance to put up the fight for life.

Every health department now publishes pamphlets on how to prevent or avoid flu. These suggest: 1. Avoid crowds—street cars, theatres or elsewhere. 2. Avoid any flu patient in the home; also anything he has handled—clothes, towels. 3. Wear a mask if in attendance on a sick member of the family. 4. Get outdoors into the sun as much as possible. 5. Go to bed at once and keep warm on the slightest suspicious symptom.

Wings For Sally

By BAILEY WOLF

SYNOPSIS. Philip Page, dark, serious young publisher of the Warrenton Courier, falls in love with his attractive society editor, Sally Warren, who can't forget her former fiancé, Sally to staying with wealthy Mary Morris, who pursues Philip. In his campaign for better living conditions, Philip is fighting Mary's property-owning father, Giles Benton, a detective engaged by Morris, accuses McDonald, one of Morris' discharged mill workers, with killing the Morris-owned theater and has McDonald arrested.

Chapter 34

Sally Eavesdrops

"I'm sick of the whole business," Mr. Morris was saying. "I want it pushed through in a hurry. If this is the guilty man, I want him convicted and sent away."

"He's the guilty one, all right," said Giles Benton. "And when he's convicted, you've won your fight in Milltown. This fellow Page won't have another word to say about cleaning up slums. These workmen will see what a rotten leader McDonald's been for them. They'll settle down, and you'll have no more trouble from that quarter."

"I hope you're right," said Mr. Morris wearily. "I don't seem to be with the man who had employed him. The next morning early May drove Sally to the McDonalds to get May and take her to the hospital. But they were too late. The children told them May had got worse during the night and that the doctor had come for her himself. They drove to the hospital. May had just gone to the operating room, the impersonal young woman at the switchboard informed them.

"I'll wait," Sally said. "There's no one else to wait."

"I'm going out to the club," said Mary. "Call me there if you want me. I'd stay if it would do the poor woman any good. But it won't and hospitals give me the creeps. I hate them."

"Go ahead," said Sally. "There's nothing you can do here. But you might see that the children have something to eat today. May would thank you for that."

"I'll do it," promised Mary. "Don't fail to call me if there's anything I can do."

Sally picked up a magazine and settled herself to wait. It seemed hours before the woman at the desk called her and said that May had come back from the operating room. She gave Sally the room number.

Philip Provides For May

SALLY was prepared to find May in a crowded ward. To her relief, the room was a private one, and there was a nurse in attendance. May was still asleep, her pale face whiter than the linen.

Hidden by the draperies, Sally listened to their words.

able to buck things the way I used to." Sally sat motionless in the window seat, hidden by the long draperies. She had been too startled to move when the men first entered the room. Now it was impossible to leave. She had heard too much. Nothing could explain her eavesdropping. Miserable and terrified, she crouched where she was, hoping with all her heart that the men would leave soon.

"You're pretty sure McDonald's also the one who has been leaving threats here at the house?" asked Mr. Morris after a short silence.

"Have you any reason to suspect the threats come from any other quarter?" asked Giles.

Mr. Morris moved restlessly and waited a few moments before he answered. "No," he said at last. "I don't know where else they could come from."

"Then," said Giles, "they must come from McDonald." His oily voice was triumphant, as if he had both McDonald and Mr. Morris in a corner. Sally had never disliked him so much as she did at this moment.

"A rich man has many enemies," said Mr. Morris, sighing. "I started out hard for every cent I've got. But nowadays a rich man is looked on as nothing short of a thief. The town's forgotten what I've done for it. He got up from his chair. "I'm tired. I believe I'll go to bed. It's very hard for me to get to sleep of late."

"Hello—Marty?" Sally could hear every word he said. "Everything's O.K. I've got a hunch the old man suspects it's you, but he won't say so. We've got him where we want him. He'll come across all right—plenty. That's enough. I'm phoning from the house. Yep. Want you to get out of town and stay out. Right now. See you in a couple of days. So long."

At last Giles was alone. Sally heard his footsteps going upstairs. She was stiff with sitting in a cramped position, and her brain whirled with the talk she had just heard. It was nothing important. And yet—there was something going on behind Mr. Morris' back. She had no proof, but she suspected Giles of double dealing.

Santa Answers

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
CHRISTOPHER Columbus Crow, said Santa Claus, "I'm delighted you've asked such a question. At first I thought you had got into some mischief—but even so—even so—" and Santa never finished that sentence. He merely twinkled.

"No one would be punished by Santa Claus to such an extent that he wouldn't be visited on Christmas Eve." "Sometimes parents, Christopher, lovely though they are, can annoy me. I don't like to hear them say, as now and again they do, that Santa won't visit the children unless they're very good."

"I don't like to be a threat to children—I don't like them to be good because they think I'll be angry and punish them if they're not." "Oh, I'm very glad, Christopher, that you've asked your question, very glad indeed."

"I like children to be good—not in a goody-goody way—but because they want to do all they can to make things jollier, more fun. I like them to be unselfish and kind and good sports and loyal and never tattle-tale. I hate to hear them whine and show-off, but I don't expect them to be perfect."

Christopher was enjoying this conversation immensely. "I am so glad you don't expect perfection," he caved. Santa smiled. "Even grown-ups aren't perfect," he continued. "I wonder if they know that Santa realizes this; and children have to be allowed time in which to improve. And I'll tell you something more, Christopher."

Christopher was all crow-attention.

A Washington Day Book.

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Senate investigators have set out to present the Van Sweringen railroad empire as a "made to order" sample of a system jockeyed about by financiers who know little or nothing of the actual operation of the lines they control.

It was not a piece of investigation, blundering that prompted the senate committee to call to the stand first the famous bottle maker, George A. Ball, who for a pilgrimage had come into control of a railroad and industrial empire with ramifications beyond his dreams.

"High Finance"

HERE was a make-up of bottles whose name was as familiar to many a housewife as was the name of her favorite remedy for aches and pains. Suddenly he somehow blossomed out as an operator of railroads. How? Oh, high finance had toiled him into the job. That is precisely the sort of picture Senator Wheeler, chief of the investigation, wanted to draw. Testimony of security deals, of new corporations formed to govern dozens of other corporations, of deals of money companies able to control rushing trains loaded with coal and wheat and oil, all was intended to arouse amazement that the whole system should not collapse.

How does anybody remember to put new ties in the roadbed? How can a Cleveland bottle maker, astute as he may be in his own field, understand that hundreds of refrigerator cars are needed in Texas in early January to handle the midwinter turkey pool?

Aimed To Promote Remedy
WHEELER, senatorial showman, expects his picture of apparent confusion to result in public pressure on his colleagues to vote for a remedy. Whether actual confusion exists in operation of the system doubtless could be debated for months but the Montana senator had a chance for a graphic show, and made the most of it.

He and many other public figures have grown extremely restless at the "complex financial structure" that has been built upon many railroads. They look upon it as a trend toward making the actual railroad more and more of a pawn in the play of big-time financial operators, and likely to injure public confidence in railroad investments.

They will follow the show with a remedy in the form of legislation calling for stiffer government supervision of railroad financing, and elimination of many corporate wheels within wheels.

Government ownership of railroads is in the minds of a few, but they won't let that proposition come too far forward yet, unless they need it as a prod to put across their more immediate legislation.

Improved methods of manufacture that result in a superior juice and a better understanding of the factors affecting the keeping qualities of grape juice, particularly juice made from Concord grapes, are reported in a recent bulletin issued by the State Experiment Station here under the joint authorship of Dr. C. S. Pederson and Dr. D. K. Tressler. A copy of the bulletin which gives a full account of improvements in the manufacture and preservation of grape juice, may be obtained upon request to the station at Geneva.

Square farming in round country—a custom handed down from father to son in the eastern Corn Belt as well as in other parts of the country, and a direct aid to erosion—passing out of the picture, say Soil Conservation Service workers. TALKS TO PARENTS

Colleges And Earning

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH

"It's a pity education doesn't keep up with progress in science and technical fields. Here's Sam at college studying history, music, literature, philosophy. Some of the boys even take Latin and Greek. Will you tell me what use such things are to boys going out to earn a living today? Sam's going to be an engineer. What's the big idea in giving him culture? You can't eat or wear or live in culture!"

Then why send Sam to college? There are plenty of technical schools, which require only four years for a complete course; and there are also trade schools. No one ever advertised college as a place where one goes to learn how to make a living. The present fad of practical education is one of the results of the demand for a college education for everybody.

Colleges should not be vocational schools, nor finishing schools, nor athletic associations. Nor should they be used as parking space for young people between 18 and 21, nor as places where likely young bond salesmen can make useful contacts. They are centers of learning, and learning leads to knowledge which, to be thorough, should be all-inclusive. For knowledge is truth, and truth cannot be obtained by scratching over a lot of superficial, pre-digested facts. To obtain knowledge, one must desire it avidly and be willing to dig for it.

Colleges were founded for people who are willing to do this, and the modern father who is trying to force the college into practical and material channels is destroying it. The boy or girl who wishes to be trained only in earning a living has no place in college. If, however, he wishes also to furnish his mind, cultivate and broaden his soul, in short to prepare himself to live a full and satisfying life, a college education can help him.

Square farms in round country result from section lines which run straight up and down hill, not on the contour.

"Lost" Man Asks Officer to Help Him Find His Wife

He was a youngish man, somewhere in his thirties, a traveling salesman as it later developed, and by all the rules should know his way around, but he was lost.

It was like this: He accosted one of Kingston's "Finest" who was on traffic duty on Wall street and said, "Officer, I wonder if you could help me find my wife?"

"Where did you lose her?" asked the officer.

"I didn't lose her; she has lost me," was the rather peculiar reply.

Further questioning brought out the statement that some two weeks previously, while the salesman was on the road, his wife, accompanied by their little son, had moved from another state and located in Kingston.

"Didn't she send you the address of the place where she was going to stop?" queried the officer. "Yes," the man replied, "but I lost it and can't remember a thing about it. I thought you would know whether anybody had recently moved into the town."

The officer explained that Kingston was a city of around 30,000, that people were moving in and out of the city all the while and that it wasn't like a small place where new arrivals were infrequent and population changes were matters of common knowledge.

The stranger said that his wife had brought their household furniture with her, but whether she had taken a house, or an apartment, or what he had not the least idea.

It was finally suggested to him that he write to his wife, at their former home, with the presumption that she had left her new address with the post office and that the letter would be forwarded to her here in Kingston.

The suggestion was accepted, the "lost" man left to secure lodgings at a hotel and to send a special delivery letter to his wife.

Sheriff Stanley Rogers of Oklahoma City said there will be no nuts for county prisoners Christmas day. Rogers distributed nuts to prisoners Thanksgiving day. The prisoners shoved the shells down the drain and clogged the pipes.

Veneering Ancient Art; Has Been Used for Ages

Two thousand years before the birth of Christ an Ethiopian prince sent Romases II, ruler of Egypt, a beautiful table constructed of inlay and intarsia. Ancient inscriptions on vases and wall interiors show the Egyptians veneering their furniture with an adhesive brewed in earthen pots.

The art of veneering furniture is almost as old as its history, observes a writer in the Washington Star. It is among the better practices in the building of quality merchandise. The construction consists of placing as many as five or seven thin layers of wood, grain against grain, cemented together with strong glues and under terrifically hot pressure. Thus plywood structure becomes stronger than steel. The outer surface of laminated furniture is generally of a beautifully marked wood.

Some of the most striking veneers used on furniture come from the many trees of the tropical Americas or Africa. Among these are the crotch, often called "swirl bush," because of its swirl to it; swirl, plum pudding, stripe, broken stripe, rope, mottle and blister. These figures are the result of irregularity of grain, the cause of which is unknown. The unusual figures in crotches and stumps are due to crowding and pressure, which causes the grain to be wrinkled and twisted.

Different Kinds of Fish Can Walk About on Land

Chinese walking fish, which are merely one of many different kinds of fishes which walk on land, live in puddles and swamps. When the puddles dry up, they promptly walk to another one on their stout fins, according to a writer in the Washington Post.

Another walking fish is the lung fish. When water is around, it breathes with its gills, but as soon as the water is gone it starts breathing with its lung, which is an adaptation of the air bladder inside all fishes. It can thus walk overland until it finds another waterhole.

Perhaps the most interesting fish which walks on land, however, is the mud-hopper. It skips around on the mud entirely out of water in pursuit of insects. All it needs to breathe is to put its tail in the water now and then. It is able, apparently, to get oxygen from the air through its tail.

Small Cones
The size of a cone is not always a clue to the size of the tree from which it came. The giant Sequoia tree of the West is a good example of this. Its cone is much smaller than those of many coniferous trees that do not reach nearly so large a size.

Time Soon for Farm Inventory

Ithaca, Dec. 17.—New York state farmers join those throughout the nation in taking an inventory during the week of January 4 to 9, according to G. E. Brandow of the state college of agriculture. Approximately 20,000 of the Empire State farmers will start the new year in this way.

Farm inventory week is sponsored by the college of agriculture in cooperation with county farm bureaus and the New York State Bankers' Association. New York has had an annual farm inventory week for more than ten years, and each year more farmers adopt the practice, Mr. Brandow says.

Farmers need an inventory as much as do other business men. They must know where they stand financially to plan for the coming year. An inventory will help. On most farms it takes only a half day. With a better outlook for most branches of farming in 1937, the inventory can be of real service in adjusting the farm business for the most profits.

To help the farmer, the college of agriculture has published an inventory record book which tells how to take a farm inventory and make a credit statement. Any farmer may have a copy from Albert Kurdt of the Ulster County Farm Bureau office, or from his local banker.

Miamishburg, an Ohio city of 5,000 population is enforcing a 40-year-old curfew ordinance for the first time in a quarter of a century. Under penalty of $10 fine, all children under 16 years must be off the streets by 9 o'clock each night, unless accompanied by parents or guardian.

Rev. Carroll Talks To Rotary Club

The Rev. Arthur G. Carroll of the St. James M. E. Church was the guest speaker at Rotary Wednesday noon in the Governor Clinton Hotel and he brought an address of balanced humor and realism to his audience as he constantly stressed the fact that the world today is walking in lock-step fashion to some goal which may bring a new social order into being. What the final result would be the speaker admitted he couldn't answer but it was obvious that new ideals, new theories and new beliefs were current in the troubled civilization of today and that the world was marching out of them into a new order of either good or bad. The Rev. Mr. Carroll stressed the hope that the democratically minded men and women of this country would think twice before joining this lock-step march as the peoples of so many nations have already done. The speaker was firm in the belief that real progress came through independent thinking and not in allowing some one man to do the thinking for the mass of the people.

The speaker's address, short and direct and enjoyably sincere, found a receptive audience and brought much comment at the meeting's terminus. He was introduced to the club as the day's speaker by Samuel Souder, Jr., of the Rotary program committee. The usual order of business prior to the Rev. Mr. Carroll's address was presided over by President Arthur Colligan and group singing was led by the Rev. Clarence Brown.

Belongs to Poultry Family
The Chacalacca, says a writer in the Los Angeles Times, is a member of the feathered clans and rightly belongs to the Gallinae or poultry family which includes the ordinary domestic species, grouse, quail, turkey and pheasant. Any number of them are found in Mexico and Central America. The eye of the bird has the same animation and fire as the game cock and Mexicans claim they fight in a similar manner. We find them called the Texas Guan in some localities but the name Chacalacca is given because of their cry which sounds like the local name.

Source of Agaragar
Agaragar is a gelatinous substance, obtained chiefly as translucent strips or a white powder from certain seaweeds (red algae), especially the Celon moss and Oriental species of gelidium; called also Chinese isinglass or Japanese agar. It is a complex mixture, including carbohydrate and a little protein, and is used chiefly as a solidifying agent in culture media for bacteria and fungi, as a laxative and, in the Orient, for soups and jellies.

Broadway: "The Gay Desperado." Nine Martini, that cocktail of song, has a rough but romantic time of it below the Rio Grande in this story of a singer and handyman in a little movie house in Mexico who suddenly skyrockets to fame when Braganza, Mexican bandit chieftain, hears him sing and takes him into his band of cut-throats. Braganza makes him find a famous singer but during all this there is a kidnapping of a rich American which leads to an inevitable bit of romance between the singer and an American girl. Mr. Martini sings beautifully and is satisfactory as an actor, the settings are eye filling and authentic, and a fine supporting cast includes Leo Carillo, Ida Lupino, Stanley Fields and Mischa Auer. Several new songs are offered in this show as well as some operatic numbers. A United Artists picture directed by Rouben Mamoulian.

Kingston: "Wedding Present" and "Murder With Pictures." Joan Bennett, Gary Grant, George Bancroft, the important players in the first Gene Lockhart and Conrad Nagel are of the feature attractions at the Kingston, the story of a man who is killed by a girl and what he does about it. It's a good comedy play, well directed by Richard Wallace and well produced by the Paramount people. "Murder With Pictures" is the associate offering, a grim murder tale that has so much excitement that the actors are breathless most of the time keeping up with the story. The show's title explains what the show offers in the way of a plot and Lew Ayres is starred with a good cast of supporting players.

Orpheum: "Shipmates Forever." The singing and dancing combination of Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler, surrounded by an all star cast of players, glorifies the Naval Academy and the United States Navy in this story of a boy who thought the martial spirit was of little worth until he learned the value of service to his country. Miss Keeler has some opportunity to dance and does a good job of it and Mr. Powell manages to dash off a song or two during the play's rapid action.

Tomorrow

Broadway: Same.

Kingston: Same.

Orpheum: "Frisco Kid" and "Roaring Guns." James Cagney, plus a wig, plays the role of a rowdy in the days when the Barbary Coast was booming with growing pains and Mr. Cagney comes out of the east to conquer the San Francisco hell of yesterday with the help of a good right arm and plenty of courage. The show is pure melodrama, filled with fights, mob violence, romance, comedy and a gusty charm that typifies the California of that day. A fine cast supports the star and the whole show is entertaining and enjoyable. "Roaring Guns" is the associate feature with Tim McCoy.

State Mayors Meet At Albany Today

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 17 (AP)—Declaring the "real need of municipalities in this period of reconstruction is freedom to work out their own fiscal salvation," the State Mayors' conference renewed its attack today on proposed constitutional debt and tax limitation amendments.

The conference, in a statement drafted after a study of state-wide financial conditions, called the amendments "completely unworkable and unreasonable."

The conference added that the proposals would throw cities and villages "into as great financial distress as is being experienced in Ohio and West Virginia where closed schools and other abandoned municipal services are commonplace."

Origin of Rock Wool

Rock wool, used to fill up the hollow wall space in homes as an insulator, was first discovered on the beach in Hawaii by scientists who recognized its possibilities immediately. It was believed by natives to be hair from a goddess dwelling in the volcano Kilauea.

Gardiner Man Pleads Guilty

New York, Dec. 16 (Special).—A plea of guilty was made before Judge William Bondy in Federal Court here today by Lee Coddington, one of four men charged in an indictment with possession of a still on the Todd Wright Farm at Gardiner.

He will be sentenced following the trial of his co-defendants, Philip Pinto, Joe Ballweg and Louis Frengs. The men were arrested at Gardiner on September 10, following the seizure of a 200-gallon still and 200 gallons of mash on the farm.

States Number 25
Washington, Dec. 17 (AP).—Enactment of unemployment insurance laws in Ohio, North Carolina and West Virginia brought to 25 today the states cooperating with the federal program. The Virginia legislature expected to act today, and the Minnesota legislature was called to meet today for the same purpose.

Will Not Participate

Washington, Dec. 17 (AP).—Justice Harlan F. Stone will not participate in the Supreme Court decision on constitutionality of the Washington state minimum wage law for women, it became known today as arguments were resumed. The justice, ill with dysentery since October 13, plans a trip south with Mrs. Stone as soon as he can travel. He was reported improving rapidly. He has not taken part in any opinions delivered this term.

Can't Prosecute For Salesmanship, Says Dorothy Smith

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 17 (AP)—Slender, blonde Dorothy U. Smith looked back on six years of arraignment, prosecution and today and concluded you can't prosecute people for salesmanship.

Miss Smith, an assistant attorney general, represents the state in all cases involving violations of the education law governing licensure. Her main task is prosecution of violations occurring in the various professions such as medicine, dentistry and the law.

"No," she said today, "you can't prosecute people for selling something. But you can prosecute them for fraudulent practice."

There was, for instance, the eye-glass salesman she brought into court recently.

"He was doing a thriving business selling glasses to relief workers," she explained. "The glasses had ordinary lenses and were worth about $1 each. He sold them for $12."

"Obviously, we couldn't do anything about the actual selling of the glasses. But, in order to create a market for the glasses, he was forced to indulge in the unlicensed practice of optometry—and that's where we got him."

The man, she pointed out, was forced to repay the money to his victims in addition to being fined for misdemeanor.

Miss Smith says most persons allowed to practice a profession, live up to its standards. And no one, she emphasized, is deprived of a license except for grave reasons and protection of the community.

"Cases of practicing without a license are much more numerous than those involving professional misconduct by licensed practitioners," she asserted.

Miss Smith is a graduate of Marymount College and Fordham Law School.

Roosevelt's Son to Attend Yule Fete

Boston, Dec. 17 (AP)—A happier White House Christmas was in prospect today as word spread that Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., probably would be home for the holidays after recovering from a combined streptococcus throat and an acute sinus infection.

The President's son will join his fiancée, Miss Ethel duPont, in the executive mansion if present plans carry through and the hopes of his physician are realized.

The serious nature of the young Harvard senior's illness was learned when Dr. George Loring Tobey, his physician, disclosed he had been fighting a hemolytic streptococcus throat. Many have died from such an infection, some within a few hours.

In the weeks Franklin Jr., has spent in Massachusetts General Hospital no hint had been given he was confined for anything other than a sinus infection.

K. E. Morris, of Eldorado, Kan., one of the men who puts little chalk marks on big cars that park over time, figures he has walked 4,600 miles since he started marking cars a year ago last August.

U. S. IS BUILDING 6 NEW SUBMARINES

Eight More Are Necessary to Reach Treaty Limit.

Portsmouth, N. H.—Portsmouth navy yard, principal birthplace of Uncle Sam's undersea craft, is busier than at any time since the World war.

Thirty-three hundred and fifty skilled civilian workers are pushing the construction program, stepped up as the United States strives to build its sea defenses to treaty strength. The wartime peak was 5,722.

Three sleek submarines lie at the yard's fitting-out berths. Two more are on the stocks. Another pair still is on the designers' drawing boards.

On the ways are the Snapper and the Stingray. Both are 300 feet long, have a twenty-five-foot beam, and mount three-inch guns. Their keels were laid in June and September.

The Stingray, when completed, will be the twenty-sixth submersible to slide from the yard's ways in the historic Piscataqua river. This region has been famous in ship-building since early Colonial days. The Piscataqua floated John Paul Jones' famous Ranger in 1777.

For more than a year the yard has been building "pigs" in pairs. The Porpoise and the Pike struck the water in June and September, 1935. The Plunger and the Pollock were launched this year.

The Portsmouth yard abandoned ship repairing after the armistice, and devoted all its facilities to submarine construction. Since the war, at least one has always been under construction here.

Of the six submarines now being built under a current congressional authorization, two are at Portsmouth, two at a private yard at New London, Conn., and one at the Mare Island navy yard on the Pacific coast. The sixth has not been awarded.

After the six are in commission Rear Admiral C. W. Cole, commandant, said, the navy still will have to build eight more to reach the treaty limit.

Scientist Perfects New System of Rejuvenation

Menton, France.—A new system of rejuvenation, consisting of a series of injections of young blood taken from healthy youths, is said to have been perfected here by Dr. Alexander Voronoff, brother of Serge Voronoff, internationally known scientist and monkey gland specialist.

When a subject arrives at the clinic, Dr. Voronoff first of all gives him a thorough general examination to see if it is possible to apply the treatment. After an extremely minute analysis of the blood, it is learned in what general category he falls.

Then blood donors with corresponding characteristics have to be found.

The blood is then treated scientifically before it is infused in the patient so that it will act quickly in aiding him to recover his natural forces. The quantity of the injection is remarkably small, but it acts like a vaccine and is claimed to be almost always successful.

Appeals Replace Guns in Western Range Disputes

Ontario, Ore.—Resolutions instead of bullets are being used by stockmen of the West to secure settlement of range disputes.

This was evident here following a meeting of stockmen and hay-growers.

In the old days, differences over grass started range wars in which blood flowed and bitter feuds tore communities asunder.

Now under the Taylor grazing law, with the vast public domain subject to regulations, contending parties are appealing to the secretary of the interior.

Under the guidance of R. N. Stanfield, former United States senator from Oregon, who once sponsored a grazing act in congress, the Malheur county group asked Secretary Ickes to cause a "competent survey to be made to determine the carrying capacity of the range before any reduction in the number of live stock permitted on the public range is made."

1,300 Hens Competing in Egg-Laying Marathon

Storrs, Conn.—One of the country's oldest marathons is the egg-laying contest at Connecticut State college, now in its twenty-sixth year. In the fall of every year, hundreds of hens settle into their nests in the poultry husbandry department's modern electrified and air-conditioned pens. Entries are received from all parts of the country, and the college has captured records year after year.

Each contestant enters ten hens, and ten alternates. The hens of each entrant are housed in separate pens, equipped with wire nests, automatic watering and four windows each. Eggs are collected daily, graded and a chart kept of progress. At the end of 365 days the final scoring is announced.

This year there are 1,300 hens competing from thirteen states. Seven breeds are entered, including Andalusians, barred Rocks, white Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds, New Hampshires and white Leghorns.

Before we all drop this royal business, it's interesting to read that the father of the present Queen of England "sold papers to defray the cost of her wedding." But not the kind of papers you think. This was "fatally papers."

Reviewing

1936 JANUARY 1936

By Hukar in U. S. Camera 1936
Music Goes Round

What happened in 1936? A series of 12 articles answering this question in a month-by-month unfolding of the year begins with the following resume of January.

By VOLTA TORREY
(Associated Press Feature Service Writer)

Sleep knelt up the raveled sleeve of care but fitfully December 31, 1935.

Rome's Legions were marching on in Africa in a war that experts said they could not win. At home, Italians looked around for junk to throw into the streets—their customary way of celebrating a New Year—but all the scraps had been put to use. So they dutifully turned their lights out early for the sake of more economy, and cursed the League of Nations and its sanctions. In London, naval conferees tossed in their slumber, wondering about Japan—whose envoys, perhaps, speculated as to whispers in Tokyo's younger military set.

Zioncheck At Play

Americans saw stocks at a new peak and heard cheerful prophecies, but some wise old heads shook. Congress was about to convene; a presidential year was coming.

Representative Zioncheck, playing telephone operator in a Washington apartment house, rang bells all over the place. "The Music Goes Round and Round," boys yodeled in Times Square; while sit-at-homes read "It can't Happen Here."

Next morning: "Gene" Talmadge became Georgia's financial dictator by legislative default.

Philadelphia mummies lampooned AAA and the "Chain Letter Brigade."

Kansas City police sought Public Enemy No. 1, Alvin Karpis, reported theseabouts.

British reporters pursued Colonel Lindbergh, fugitive from fame. Moscow grandfathers explained the significance of newly legalized

Christmas trees to children who never had seen them before.

AAA Ruled Out

President Roosevelt's serious voice, within a week, rolled through 250 broadcasting stations in a night message to Congress, assailing autocrats at home and abroad, and challenging his critics.

AAA Demolished in 6-2 Supreme Court Decision, headlines soon blazed.

The young brain trusters caught the socialists in swimming and they ran away with their clothes. Al Smith snorted and Liberty Leaguers chortled.

"The brown derby," Joe Robinson replied, "has been discarded for the high hat."

"You haven't heard the 'all of it,'" a wit opined. But not all of the pinball-playing public caught on, even though "The Literary Digest" poll was showing 62 per cent out of sympathy with the New Deal.

Surgeons in New York had to operate by match light when a power system failure darkened much of Manhattan.

Many Notables Die

At 11:55 p. m. January 20, Lord Dawson of Penn turned from a sickbed at Sandringham to the Prince of Wales and said:

"Your Majesty, your father is dead."

"This man," John Masefield wrote, "was king in England's direst need. In the black-battle years, after hope was gone

"His courage was a flag men rallied on."

Rudyard Kipling, John Gilbert, S. L. "Rovey" Rothafel and George W. Wickham died that same month, and 17 persons perished in an Arkansas swamp in an inexplicable air crash.

But from Little America came word that Lincoln Ellsworth and his co-pilot, feared lost for seven weeks, were alive and safe.

Governor Hoffman, meanwhile, "just had" to reprieve Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

THE STORY OF 'MR. JOHNSTON'—ENGLAND'S NEW KING

NO. 4

The former "Mr. Johnston" of the naval school, who has become the British empire's king, often represented George V at religious ceremonies. When Lincoln Cathedral was restored he was photographed with the bishop (in back), the duchess and dean (in front).

Like many other family men, "Mr. Johnston" enjoyed tinkering with radio apparatus and working crossword puzzles on quiet evenings at home. He had his own workbench, where he assembled radio sets for several friends. From boyhood on, he showed a decided bent for mechanical devices.

After George V died and his wife became queen, the Duke of York represented the crown at many public events. At the opening of an infirmary in Aberdeen the lord provost greeted him.

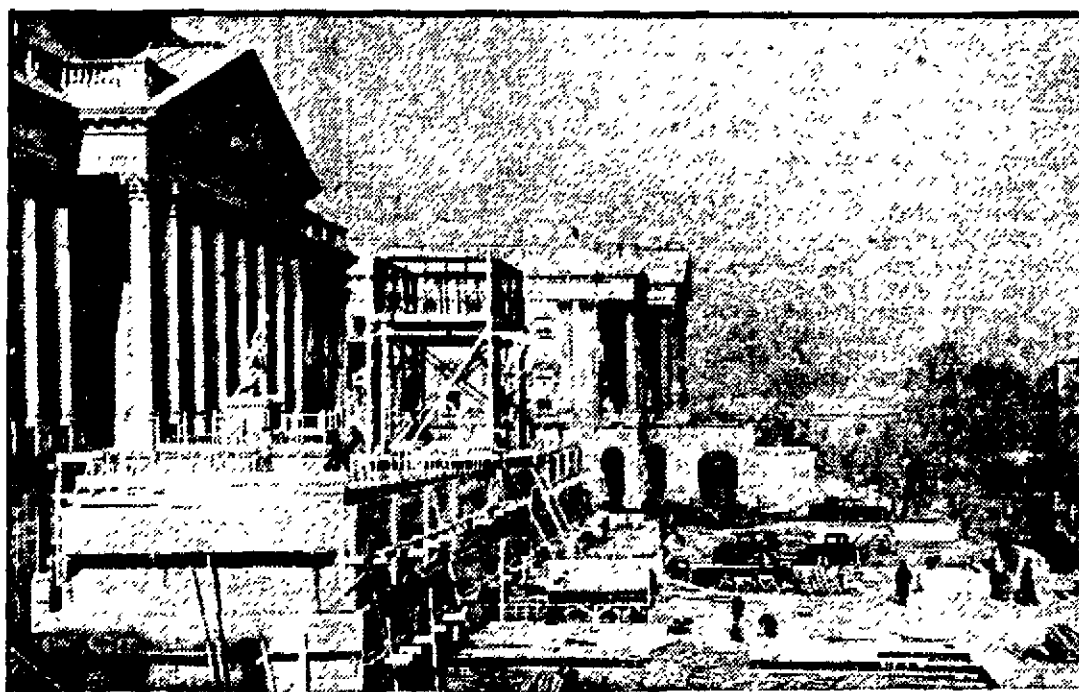

By the act of Edward VIII in renouncing his throne for an American woman, the Duke of York became England's thirty-ninth sovereign, monarch of a half million persons. Edward made his "final and irrevocable decision" at Fort Belvedere on December 10, in the presence of his brothers.

The new king, the new queen and the princess who now is next in line for the throne, are seen here, at a horse show, in one of their informal photographs before "Mr. Johnston" became George VI.

Old Clipping Recalls Famous School Feud On Teacher George

Elmer Swart of this city recently brought to The Freeman office a clipping from the Kingston Journal of the date of 1874, in which there is a most peculiar bit of writing. The clipping is from a letter written to the Journal by Dr. George S. Shady of Flatbush, who was a famous physician of his day. Many of the older residents will recall the physician and the peculiar sense of humor which he possessed.

At the time Mr. Swart was a small boy just entering his teens and he recalled the spirited school meeting which was the subject of Dr. Shady's letter. The meeting was one at which the residents of Flatbush arranged themselves in battle front for and against the dismissal of the teacher, Matthew George.

The clipping, browned with age, was found among the effects of the late Benjamin Osterhoudt and sent to Mr. Swart by a niece of Mr. Osterhoudt.

The letter, a column in length, describes the meeting and in referring to the speakers who attended the session the doctor referred to each one in turn as he spoke by some vegetable term. His sense of humor made the article especially to the liking of his friends and equally disgusting to those whom he did not like. For instance to one man whom he apparently did not have a particularly friendly feeling he delegated the name "small potatoes." To a more peppy resident he gave the name "Mr. Onion," and so on through the garden he went. No names were mentioned in the article but the doctor reserved choice vegetable names which he considered suited the manners or reputation of the individual in the community. Himself he calls "Lancet."

Noted Names Involved
Mr. Swart, whose memory is particularly keen, chuckled as he re-read the item and recalled the true names of the men mentioned. The men referred to were such loyal citizens as the Osterhoudts, Ten-Broekes, Delamaters, Snyder, Squire Whittaker, the Thompson and Turk families and several others whose names in local history are famous.

There are several choice sections in the letter which opens up: "As everyone was invited to come and see the fun at the last school election in our place, I availed myself of the opportunity because I desired to see how this neighborhood, so famous for its school quarrels, managed its internal affairs."

Continuing on the letter says: "The good people had been preparing for a quiet little battle for a long while, and were more and more eager to engage into it as the time for the election approached. It was rumored that Mr. Turnip was to call Mr. Carrot, one of the trustees, to account; that the teacher had not served his time, and that Mr. Chicken and wife had kept an account by their clock; that Mr. Pumpkin would bring along his 'example'; that Mr. Carrot had electioneered with his relatives, Beet and Fustley, who were coming up to represent the family; that Mr. Pepper had all his friends mustered; that Mr. Square had no right to be elected, and that everyone with whom Mr. Pumpkin had talked the matter over, were going to vote for Mr. Holster 'through thick and thin'."

The article goes on to report the proceedings at the meeting with the speakers being referred to in endearing terms. At one point the article says, referring to the writer, "Mr. Lancet arose at this junction and wanted to say a few words, remarking that the 'matter has now come to a head and might be opened up.' Mr. Lancet continued and Mr. Pumpkin invited him to 'go home and speak.' One of the Beets (nicknamed Small Potatoes) winked, chuckled and was in high state of glee."

Teacher Resigned
Despite the reference to Mr. Onion, Mr. Rooster, Mr. Berry, etc., the article, Mr. Swart says, gave a most interesting and correct description of events at the meeting and the ultimate result was that the teacher promptly resigned after the triumph of the Holster party.

The article concludes with the statement that "finally Lancet was forced down, the election was held and the people decided in favor of a new teacher. Mr. Pumpkin winked at Mr. Pepper, Mr. Carrot smiled at Mr. Onion and Mr. Chicken patronized Mr. Rooster."

A LITTLE THOUGHT FOR 'WALLY'

Apparently Mr. Lancet was not in favor of the action taken for he says that a few people "who choose to get offended at a teacher, can manufacture a case against him, can overrule an independent action of the trustees, can gag any one who attempts to ask for justice, and can thus decide that a teacher is incompetent."

The general tone of the letter indicates that even in 1874 school meetings were the same political boiling pots as today and that a school meeting was one big event in the life of any small community when school matters came up for discussion.

COUPLE WILL WED TODAY AT LETCHWORTH PARK CAMP

Letchworth Park, N. Y., Dec. 17 (AP)—Wedding bells replaced the ring of axes at Camp 17 of the Civilian Conservation Corps today while khaki-clad members of the contingent prepared for what they believed to be the first CCC wedding in this section of the country.

Slated to pledge their troth tonight in the unique setting were Ernest Wise, 24, of Avoca, and Miss Virginia Beattie, 18, of Canisteo. Wise ended his two years service with the corps here four months ago and when his former buddies learned of his intention to marry, an invitation to hold the wedding in camp was extended immediately through Captain George W. Martin, commandant.

Captain Francis W. Perkins, CCC chaplain in the Gibsonville area, will perform the ceremony. A WPA orchestra will provide music for the dancing scheduled later.

In the meantime, camp enrollees put a new shine today on picks and shovels that will form the arch under which the newlyweds will leave the marriage scene.

Y. M. Auxiliary
The December meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Women's Auxiliary, which was postponed last week because of the stormy weather, will be held on Friday of this week at the "Y," and a full attendance is urged.

Reds Convinced Aid is Needed

picked troops once more against the gates of the capital.

The attack probably would come from the west, they said, because two insurgent columns already were moving on Majadahonda from Robledo De Chavala, some 25 miles west of the capital city.

On the northeast, the Fascists marched on Algete, some 15 miles from Madrid.

From these insurgent troop movements, government military men deduced that Franco would strive to enter Madrid on a far flung offensive, rather than through the northwestern University City section in which some units of his men already have penetrated.

Flank Movement

Then, as his next step, they said, Franco probably would try to drive a flank movement between Madrid and Valencia, the seat of the Madrid government for some weeks.

No matter what Franco's plans, the government leaders said, he would be faced with "the strongest line of trenches ever thrown around any position."

As rescue workers dug in the ruins for bodies of those killed in the air raid, officials were non-committal on reports that the opposing forces had arranged an exchange of 4,000 prisoners of war.

It was learned, however, that several hundred Madrid prisoners were released and several others transferred elsewhere.

Born To Be Queen

Empire's Devotion To Elizabeth Is Case Of Love At First Sight

SOCIAL LIFE BEGINS AT 4
Princess Elizabeth (in center, seated beside boy) was the center of attention when only four, at a children's party given by Lady Allen-dale.

When Edward VIII was Prince of Wales, the empire rated him first in its affections, although the birth of a daughter to his brother, Duke of York, in 1926, gave him a close rival. Now that he's Duke of Windsor, and his brother is George VI, that girl, Princess Elizabeth, succeeds to her uncle's place as charmer extraordinary. This is the first of a three-part series telling the story of the winsome little heir-apparent.

PRINCESS AND HER PONY
Riding lessons are part of Princess Elizabeth's schooling. Here she is in Great Windsor Park.

By CHARLES NORMAN
A Feature Service Writer.

A little princess, as pretty as any in Hans Christian Andersen's fairy tales, rules Britain's empire of hearts.

Some day she may sit on the throne as Elizabeth II, and in this most probable event Englishmen see the possibility of "Good Queen Bess's glorious days" again.

No fairy godmother attended her birth in the old-fashioned house at 17 Burton street, London, the town residence of her maternal grandfather, the Earl of Strathmore. But personages from a fairy tale world were there in number on April 22, 1926—peers of the realm, princes of the blood royal, and a solemnly garbed figure, the home secretary, whose presence was required at the birth of a royal child.

Crowds Awaited News.

Outside, in Burton street, ordinary citizens of London gathered in excited groups to discuss the event, for even without knowing whether the child of the Duke and Duchess of York was a boy or a girl they knew that some day the little addition to the royal family might rule over them.

As King George V was on the throne, and next to him the most popular figure in the Empire was the Prince of Wales; but the prince had shown himself a sluggard as regards marriage, and next in line for the throne was his brother, the Duke of York, and after him, his children.

Thus from the moment of her birth Princess Elizabeth was third in line for the succession.

Baby Hand Won Hearts.

Here has been a colorful, if somewhat restricted, existence under the supervision of loving parents much in the public eye themselves, of royal aunts and royal retainers; of progress from town palaces to country castles with all the pomp of a medieval princess's retinue accompanying her.

QUEEN MARY'S PUPIL

From babyhood Princess Elizabeth has conducted herself like one born to the purple and crinoline of sovereigns. Here she is with her grandmother, Queen Mary, at the 1936 Royal Tournament at Olympia.

From the time she first waved to adoring men and women from her carriage in a drive around Windsor Great Park to the present, when her appearance in public is an eagerly watched-for event, she has conducted herself like one born to the purple and crinoline of sovereigns, and has done it with a childish charm and warmth of spirit that have endeared her to all generations.

Taken to Glamis Castle.

Her mother was Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, of an aristocratic Scottish family whose seat is Glamis Castle where the Lyons of the Great Strath have dwelled as lords of the region for centuries and where Macbeth murdered Duncan in his ill-starred aspirations to the throne of Scotland.

It was to this castle that Princess Elizabeth was taken when she was three months old, to start, in baby-winning fashion, the tremendous hold she has on the Scottish people from whom her mother springs—a hold only equaled by the adoration that is hers from the people of England and the empire at large.

Delighted by Little Sister.

Four years later, August 21, 1930, at Glamis Castle, her mother gave birth to a second child, who was named Margaret Rose. The next day, when Elizabeth awoke, she was told of this event by her nurse. Her surprise and delight knew no bounds, and she donned her clothes more quickly than any other time in her life, so great was her eagerness to see the tiny arrival.

With her sister, and with a few blue-blooded cousins, Elizabeth has spent her leisure hours in games.

Ever Nearer to Throne.

Her father, then Duke of York, was the second son of George V. The Duke loomed on the horizon of succession to the throne ever larger as the years passed and his elder brother the Prince of Wales remained a bachelor.

Once, indeed, Edward and Lady Elizabeth had been brought together, and hopes had been high that a match might result, but a real romance failed to blossom. When Edward dropped out the Duke of York won and won.

Today, Elizabeth's father is King George VI and her mother is Queen Elizabeth. But it is to an earlier Bess that the new heir-apparent to the throne has been and is being likened.

MALDEN MAN REPORTED
BOY HIT BY HIS CAR.

Joseph Stoly of Malden reported to the police department Wednesday evening that while driving on the Wurts street hill a boy, Ronald Van Stenburgh, 7, of 24 Post street, had run out in the road in front of his car. He stated that the boy had escaped with slight injuries.

Presbyterian Men
Elected Officers

Harold Metcalf was elected president of the Men's Club of the Roundout Presbyterian Church at the annual meeting and supper held Wednesday evening in the chapel. The other officers elected were: Vice president, Terry Staples; secretary, Byron Stevens; and treasurer, Harold Davis.

The business meeting of the club followed the serving of supper served by a committee, and after the fine menu that had been prepared was tucked away under the vests of the men, Attorney Dorr Monroe, the retiring president, presided as toastmaster, and brief addresses were made by Charles R. O'Connor, Everett Schutt and Ralph Neville.

The Rev. James N. Armstrong, Jr., pastor of the church, called the club's attention to the series of special religious meetings to be held during the second week of January, and the club endorsed the movement and pledged its support.

Plans for the winter season were discussed. The retiring officers of the club submitted their reports which showed that the club had enjoyed an active season and closed the year with a balance in the treasury.

No Traces of Man

Troy, N. Y., Dec. 17 (AP)—Fears that James Gilbooley, 30, had fallen into a vat of sulphuric acid were at rest today, after an analysis of the contents of the tank. Gilbooley, an employee of the Hudson Valley Fuel Corporation, disappeared Tuesday, leaving a pair of goggles near a manhole in the tank. In the possibility he had fallen into the tank, company officials ordered it drained. Sixteen hours later, the analysis showed this had not happened, an official said.

POLITICS at Random

DEMOCRATS inclined to view factional strife with alarm are wondering about the house of representatives leadership skirmishes between supporters of Sam Rayburn and John J. O'Connor. Traditional house resentment at senatorial "meddling" in its affairs further complicates the situation for all concerned.

Among others, Vice President Garner (presiding officer of the senate) is in Washington working openly for Rayburn. It is not a matter of tacit support. Mr. Garner has said bluntly that he was here to see that his fellow Texan got the job.

Some Rayburn men intimated this meant support of the administration itself. O'Connor denials were quick and hot. Then spokesmen for the New Yorker pounced on Mr. Garner—he must have expected that—and Senator Guffey, acknowledged boss of things Democratic in Pennsylvania.

The O'Connor adherents thought Guffey had a good deal to do with the pledge of Democratic house members from his state to back Rayburn. He blandly denied responsibility. Those who took the trouble to look up the 1934 speakership fight found that Pennsylvania's declaration of support for the late Joe Byrns was instrumental in his victory.

Buchanan Seeks Compromise

RAYBURN campaigners contend O'Connor himself has been casting about in the senate for support, and cite a letter in which he asked Senator Clark of Missouri for aid. They predict that in the end their candidate will win by acclamation.

But there was growing apprehension as rival factions charted their offensives toward the opening of congress, with Chairman Buchanan of the house appropriations committee first to speak up. He skirted the edge of the Rayburn-O'Connor controversy, contenting himself with calling for a "wise leadership" to prevent the majority from splitting into warring blocs.

That would be inevitable, he thought, if a "brutal" and domineering course was pursued. No one, however, is sanguine enough to think that Democratic lines will remain unbroken. Speaker Bankhead himself admits "we can't expect unanimity" but harmony-minded representatives hope salt won't be rubbed into wounds already painful.

Representative Rankin was so concerned over the tenseness that he proposed withdrawal of all candidates, himself included, in favor of Representative Dougherty. He thought that a practical compromise.

Contrasting Types

A WORD about Rayburn and O'Connor would not be amiss, for they give a pat illustration of just how different men bearing the same political tag may be. The bald, stocky Rayburn is a small-town attorney from Texas, diligent and persistent. He speaks quietly and precisely, and is considered a mirror of the district he represents.

O'Connor, on the other hand, is a red-headed Irishman, brisk and positive in his manner. Those who remember his spectacular tilt with Father Coughlin will have a good idea of how easily his temper flares. His New York City district includes the Tammany wigwag and swank Park avenue.

It might seem, therefore, that the strength of the big city machines of the north, with Tammany at the helm, was pitted once again against the southern Democrats.

Pennsylvania Democrats already are in Rayburn's camp. Thus far no word has come from the Kelly-Nash (Chicago), Pendergast (Missouri) and Hague (New Jersey) machines. What does this discreet silence mean?

Big Job Ahead

THE majority leader, no matter who he is, will have his work cut out for him. The size of his group alone will give him uneasy moments. Three hundred and thirty-three of the representatives are Democrats, and many of them are first-termers getting their initial taste of lawmaking. They will test the mettle of even the "wise leadership" so fervently hoped for by Mr. Buchanan.

O'Connor is certain to have an important say in house affairs regardless of the outcome of the leadership fight. Defeated for that honor he would return to his old post as chairman of the potent rules committee, there to virtually control the course of legislation. Much could happen in that committee which would distress the majority.

Christmas Pageant
On Sunday Night

A Christmas pageant, "The Coming of the Christ Child", will be presented Sunday night, December 20, at 7:30 o'clock, by the young people of the Ponchockie Congregational Church. The pageant, under the direction of Mrs. John Heidenreich, presents the Christmas story in a three-fold way. The story is read from the scripture; it is sung by the choir of angels; it is acted by the young people. Simplicity and reverence are the keynote of the service. It is not intended to be a finished dramatic production for the entertainment of an audience, but a dramatized service of worship in which all take part. The public is invited to join with us in this Christmas service. The characters in the pageant are:

Farm and Home Bureaus

Accord.

There was an unusual Home Bureau meeting at the Eppe's farm in Accord on Wednesday afternoon to plan the placing of equipment and cloths in the kitchen of a little Cape Cod cottage which is being built for the use of the hired man on the place.

The following members were welcomed by Mrs. Eppe and Miss Coons at the farm house: Miss Everice Parsons, Mrs. Edward Davenport, Mrs. Marian Sahler, Mrs. John Osterhoudt, Mrs. Percy Gazlay, Mrs. L. M. Decker, Mrs. William Countryman, Mrs. Vernon A. Barnhart, Mrs. Albert Myers, Mrs. W. F. Currie, Mrs. DeWitt Barley, Mrs. M. P. Palmer, Miss Everice Parsons, the Home Bureau manager, led a discussion on convenient kitchens and gave to each member one of the new bulletins on the Development of a Successful Kitchen.

Mrs. Eppe was asked to explain the changes she had recently made in her summer kitchen so the group were shown the rearranged and redecorated room and asked to note the various working centers equipped with the utensils that were used there. The use of the wheeled tray in clearing the dining room table and putting away the clean dishes and utensils was demonstrated.

"Poison" Letters
Still Reach Villa

Cannes, France, Dec. 17 (AP)—Letters threatening Wallis Warfield Simpson for causing the abdication of Edward VIII are still being received at the Riviera Villa where she is staying, a spokesman said today.

Mrs. Simpson herself, he said, tore up many of the letters, spurning suggestions that some of the more violent ones be turned over to the police.

Mrs. Simpson, it was said, "is not afraid" of the poison pen writers, and delights in tearing up the letters herself "to show her contempt for that sort of thing."

She hoped, however, that the mail would dwindle because of the strict exclusion in which she chooses to remain. It was said her hope was that the public would forget her and her romance which shook an empire.

Wanted in Indiana Is Arrested Here

Miss Marion Cole, 24, of Foxhall Avenue, Held on Warrant Issued Last April—Other Cases in Police Court.

Miss Marion Cole, 24, of 211 Foxhall Avenue, was arraigned before Judge Culliton in police court this morning on a charge of being a fugitive from justice and the hearing was adjourned to Saturday morning and bail fixed at $500. Miss Cole was seen in a lunch room here last evening by Officers Welch and Van Buren and placed under arrest. The warrant on which she was arrested was a bench warrant issued by the sheriff of Miami county, Indiana, last April. The arrest grew out of an automobile transaction, it being alleged she purchased a Chevrolet car from the Cripes Sales Company of Indiana and removed the car from the state before all of the payments had been made.

Sergeant Phinney informed Judge Culliton that the Indiana authorities had been notified last night by teletype of the arrest of Miss Cole here, but no answer had been received as yet from the message.

Kenneth McClure, who told the police he roomed at the Eagle Hotel, was arrested Wednesday afternoon on a disorderly conduct charge. It was alleged he acted queerly and annoyed pedestrians on Main street. Judge Culliton set the hearing down for Saturday morning and fixed bail at $25.

Christian Rienzo of 283 East Union street, was arrested Wednesday on a charge of having a pin ball machine in his possession. This morning he received a suspended sentence and the machine was ordered destroyed.

Edward Reis of 14 Prince street, arrested last night on a charge of operating a car without any lights, received a suspended sentence as he had since had the lights repaired.

Ray Felletter of Hudson, arrested on a charge of public intoxication, had his hearing set down for Saturday.

From the early history of Virginia it is obvious that the production of hay was not of any great importance. Agriculture centered about tobacco. New lands were sought rather than methods of improving worn-out soils.

Soil erosion costs North Carolina farmers an estimated $60,000,000 annually.

It is stated that there will be no change at this time with reference to chauffeurs' original licenses or junior operator original licenses. The new applications will not be received until January 2. All applicants who have filed the old form prior to January 2 will receive a license expiring May 31, 1937.

Fight for Kai-Shek Release Spreads

never come to political terms with him."

Chang's legions were reported retreating on Sian in the face of advancing divisions of China's central army under General Ho.

The "young marshal's" troops were said to be cut off from all aid to the east and outflanked by a loyal force to the west by the well-trained government troops moving in force to rescue their imprisoned chieftain.

Closeted with Elder at the residence of Dr. H. H. Kung, acting civil head of the central government, and Madame Chiang, the dictator's wife, was Dr. T. V. Soong, who flew from Shanghai to join the conference that may have paved the way to end the Chinese crisis.

Rushed Through Streets.
First Elder, a member of the executive Yuan, and then Dr. Soong, was rushed through the streets in a closed motor to Dr. Kung's residence.

Their arrival caused mounting excitement in the small group of officials who were informed of their presence.

The selection of General Chiang Ting-Wen as intermediary for the negotiations was considered significant.

His appointment by the dictator to replace Marshal Chang as commander of the anti-Communist forces in the western provinces was considered by many to have been the immediate cause of the rebellion.

It was reported here that inspiring demonstrations of the government warplanes over Sian had caused the marshal's willingness to negotiate.

Four hundred planes, one report said, darkened the skies over the provincial capital as an indication to the rebels of the Nanking government's ability to blow off the map.

Numerous air fields of Honan province are well stocked with the pride of the Nanking air force. The machines are the latest models produced by America's foremost makers of military aircraft.

Cut Off From Aid.

Chang's rebellious legions were reported cut off from all aid to the east and withdrawing to Sian in the face of the relentlessly advancing divisions of China's central army.

Sian was reported surrounded by loyal divisions and Chang, through a fatal military blunder, prevented from forming a junction with any allies that might rally to his banner.

Military officers of the central government were described as hopeful of quick success in the fighting which was reported to have broken out on the west of the Shensi capital yesterday.

Observers pointed out that Chang, expecting his lieutenants at Loyang, Honan Province, to rebel at the outbreak of the Sian mutiny, had failed to block strategic Tungkuang pass where Shensi, Shansi and Honan provinces meet.

A dozen machine guns it was said could have held the pass and effectively barred entrance to Shensi.

Failure of his Loyang satellites to rebel, however, threw control of the pass to the central army.

This ring about the capital of Shensi, it was said, meant that assistance could arrive only by foot over the tortuous roads.

Sons of Legions

The Sons of the American Legion will meet at the Lexington building this evening at 7 o'clock at which time final returns from the dance held recently will be made.

French Minister Denies Charge

Paris, Dec. 17 (AP)—Finance Minister Vincent Auriol denied in a Chamber of Deputies debate today a declaration by one parliamentarian that France was reconsidering the war debt question in order to obtain a loan from the United States.

The chamber was debating the budget for the ministry of finance, the last of the individual budgets to be taken up. The deputies were expected to vote tonight on the budget as a whole.

Rightist Deputy Emerand Bardoul charged that the government's finances were in such a serious condition that it had to choose between loans and inflation.

"Loans in France are not sufficient for you," he declared, addressing Auriol.

"You would also make loans abroad. And so you would be led to reconsider the debt question in regard to America."

"No," the finance minister replied. "You've seen the government's answer."

He referred to the semi-annual war debt note sent to Washington which announced France would again default her payment due last Tuesday, but hoped to open negotiations for a new agreement "acceptable to both" parties.

"You would ask an American loan," Bardoul persisted.

"That rumor was false and remains false," Auriol answered.

He added: "We should have no need of loans if certain capitalists had not sent billions abroad."

District Attorney Murray Addresses Guards at Wallkill

District Attorney Cleon B. Murray, who is on the instruction staff at the Medium Security Prison at Wallkill where the state Central Guard School is now in session, addressed the 80 members of the class Wednesday afternoon. Included on the staff of instructors at the school are a number of prominent men who are in daily touch with the practical side of crime prevention and who have had wide experience in detection and punishment of crime. As district attorney of Ulster county Mr. Murray has been invited to become a member of the staff of instructors, to bring to the attention of the guard students that side of prison life as comes to the attention of the prosecuting officer.

At the school now in session there are 80 men who are being instructed in the duties for guards for various state institutions. Beside practical experience the men attend lectures on the many phases of prison duty. The next school to be held at Wallkill will have a class of 120 men.

Wednesday afternoon Mr. Murray spoke on "Justice and Its Relations to Institutional Treatment." In his talk Mr. Murray told of the changes in prison systems since the early days and traced the history of penal progress throughout the years. He remarked on the early prisons so far as treatment of prisoners was concerned; told of the progress made since the abolition of the lockstep, stripes and brutal silent system. He referred to the inauguration of educational systems which are rapidly being developed in penal institutions along with vocational training programs. He spoke of what justice meant relative to the treatment of prisoners and said that while all this trend toward making better citizens of inmates in institutions was a step in the right direction, he did not believe in prisoners being pampered. He said that fair treatment when deserved was the proper thing and referred to the training which the guards and other prison employees required in order to understand properly this modern system of treatment toward prisoners which if carried out properly would turn many prisoners from a life of crime and restore him to his community as a useful citizen.

Duty of the Guards

Guards because of their intimate contacts with prisoners, he said, have an opportunity to watch and train the various individuals and their dealings with the prisoners were of a far different nature than the treatment accorded by mass instruction. Each guard had an individual duty to do toward the men he had under him and by taking advantage of this opportunity he might save many of the inmates for a useful life outside the prisons. Guards today he said were trained in social as well as in technical duties and he reminded the men that there were various types of prisoners who would come under their direction. Each group would require a different approach. There was the young boy, the first offender, the mental case, the habitual criminal, the sleeper, the faker and the type of man who committed some crime under great emotional strain and who would never stray again. He referred to methods of dealing with each of these types.

Mr. Murray reminded the members of the school of their responsibilities to the state, their honorable calling and to see that their duties were well done. He urged them not to be influenced for power, money or other motives but to do their own job well and grasp the opportunity to be of real service to the state and to the prison program. He said they must be just in all dealings with prisoners and others so as to be a credit to the prison system.

In conclusion he stressed their duty to turn out the prisoners as good citizens and to try and influence the inmates while in the institutions in such a way that they, by the treatment which was accorded them by the prison officials while confined in an institution, would find an incentive to go straight and steer away from the path of crime when they were released.

$30,000 Jewel Robbery

New York, Dec. 17 (AP)—Three holdup men entered a Brooklyn pawnshop within two blocks of police headquarters today, held up three employees, and escaped with $30,000 in jewelry and $2,000 in cash. Three customers who entered the shop during the robbery were locked up by the thieves in a back room with the employees.

American League Of Nations Shelved

Buenos Aires, Dec. 17 (AP)—Proposals for creation of an American League of Nations were sidetracked by an inter-American peace conference committee today after Argentina and Brazil raised strong opposition.

When a sub-committee recommended to the committee on peace organization that it act favorably on Dominican and Colombian outlines of the league project, the sub-committee chairman, Max Henriquez Urena of the Dominican Republic, proposed that five jurists be named to study the plans and prepare a report for the regular Pan-American conference scheduled for 1935 at Lima, Peru.

Argentine and Brazilian representatives immediately objected, insisting it was unwise to consider the league plan at present, and the committee adjourned without acting on the sub-committee's proposal.

The arms limitation committee, meanwhile, approved a modified Chilean resolution using general or bilateral arms limitation agreements. Paraguay made a reservation to the effect it could not limit its armaments below a level fixed as a maximum by existing agreements. Observers interpreted this qualification as meaning Paraguay would not reduce her forces below the 5,000 standing army permitted under the agreement which ended the three-year Chaco war.

Action on a Uruguayan resolution condemning the use of poison gas and bacteria in warfare and the bombing of unguarded cities was postponed when Brazil submitted a counter-resolution on the ground the Uruguayan project required study by experts to define some terms.

Frank Will Fight For Madison Post

Madison, Wis., Dec. 17 (AP)—Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, expressed determination today to fight for the position he has held for the past 11 years.

"I have no intention of presenting my resignation to the board of regents now or at any other time," he said, after hearing charges against him read by Chairman Harold M. Wilkie at a stormy board meeting yesterday.

Wilkie said he would ask for Dr. Frank's retirement with the expiration of his contract next June. The regents voted for a public hearing on the accusations to be held on call of the chairman. It was indicated that it may be held next week.

Wilkie's charges against Dr. Frank included "lack of the qualities of either a business or an educational administrator."

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

New York, Dec. 17 (AP)—A belated but brisk rally in steel helped to encourage recovery forces in today's stock market.

Specialties were in favor earlier while many of the leaders were burdened with light selling.

Carrier equipments and several utilities were prominent on the upside.

Gainers up to a point or more near the final hour included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Ludlum, Vanadium, A. M. Byers, Standard Gas, Electric Power & Light, Westinghouse Airbrake, American Locomotive, Worthington Pump, U. S. Rubber, Transue & Williams, Blaw-Knox, Park & Tilford and Distillers Corporation.

In a restricted area were Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, American Telephone, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, North American, American Water Works, Standard Oil of N. J., General Electric, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania and Southern Pacific.

Prominent in the losing columns were Westinghouse, Canada Dry, Newport Industries, Douglas Aircraft, General Motors, Oliver Farm, Gimbel, Woolworth, Dome, American Smelting and S. Joseph Lead.

Except for intermittent flurries, the trading pace was comparatively slow. Transfers were around 1,900,000 shares.

All of the toys to be given out Christmas have been contributed by residents of the city and renovated by members of the paid fire department and other willing workers and now they are as good as new.

To date a little over $900 has been contributed to the fund to purchase clothing and mittens and sweaters, and the committee hopes that further contributions will be made to this worthy cause so that no child will have to go without warm clothing.

Grave of Robin Hood

On a hill overlooking the River Calder, in the park of Kirklees hall, near Huddersfield, Yorkshire, is a grave described as the tomb of Robin Hood, the great legendary hero of England. The earliest mention of Robin Hood is found in the second edition of "Piers Plowman," issued in 1377, in which the outlaw is represented as the last of the Saxons who opposed the Norman conquerors. Robin Hood, as a yeoman, was the ideal and hero of the common people. Legend pictures Robin Hood as an expert archer and a lover of the free, outdoor life. He was adventurous, brave, chivalrous, generous, jocular and a protector of women. His memory is kept alive by the names of numerous places in Lincolnshire, Nottinghamshire and Yorkshire.

"Sideral Month"

The moon goes around the earth every twenty-seven and one-third days, in a period called the "sideral month." Its path is not a circle, but an ellipse. Each time it goes around, says Science Service, there is one point when it is nearest the earth, or perigee, and one when it is farthest, called apogee. Because of the pull on the moon by the sun, and other bodies in the solar system, the shape of its orbit is not constant. At some times it is pulled out into a longer ellipse, while at other times it is squeezed into a more nearly circular form. The earth is not at the center of the ellipse, but towards one end, at a point called the focus.

WOMEN TO DICTATE NEW HOME PLANNING

Survey Reveals Preferences of Average Housewife.

New York.—The results of an unprecedented survey to discover the needs and preferences of the average prospective home-builder in the coming boom in residential construction are reported in the Architectural Forum, and reveal two facts most clearly: "The woman, who has been emancipated from the backbreaking drudgery of housework, now serves notice that she will insist on even greater conveniences and comforts than in the past; and advocates of new ideas in planning still have a long way to go to convince the public of the superiority of basic changes from long accustomed room arrangements."

Prepared by the editors of The Forum, the survey was conducted by the Niagara Hudson Power corporation and reveals in great detail the requirements, preferences and "pet peeves" of 11,207 families, most of whom signified that they might expect to pay between $7,000 and $8,500 for a house and lot and were prepared to pay between $1,000 and $2,000 down, in the expectation of complete amortization in from 10 to 15 years.

ELEPHANTS GO FOR HARD LIQUOR CURE

Fight Sickness to Get Doses of Gin and Whisky.

Bombay, India.—The two most intelligent elephants a writer in the Illustrated Weekly of India ever knew liked liquor, but, while one, an American zoo elephant named Zip, liked gin flavored with ginger, the other, a European circus elephant—name unknown—took his whisky straight.

"When Zip once got a bad stomach ache his keeper gave him a bucket of gin and ginger and put a mustard plaster on his stomach. For weeks after that he would pretend to be ill, rolling on the ground in pretended agony. But he never got the gin again, only the less pleasant mustard plaster.

"The circus elephant was just the same. He had a bottle of whisky neat to cure a cold and then began having colds every week. They tried him with cold tea in a whisky bottle but he promptly squirted it back into his attendant's face. Beer and other less costly medicines were treated with the same contempt.

Had to Give In

"At last, in desperation they gave him his whisky. After that he became unmanageable if he did not get his drink now and then. He would swallow a bottle of whisky off in two gulps and he never suffered the slightest ill-effects. It was his reward for being the cleverest of all elephants.

"Elephants, as we in India know, are among the most intelligent of animals. Their sagacity is equal to, and often exceeds, that of the two other friends of man—the horse and the dog. How exceptionally clever some elephants can be is revealed in the following true stories:

"In the teak yards of Rangoon, where troops of elephants are employed to stack the logs, the hours of working are from 6 a. m. to 11 a. m. and 3 p. m. to dusk.

"The elephants know to a minute when the time to knock off for the lunch hour arrives and no coercion by their mahouts will persuade them to move a single log after 11 o'clock has struck. They will not even complete the job in hand.

"Down tools" is their slogan and no trade unionist could be stricter in his observance of the rules.

"The elephant's belief in trade union principles is also illustrated on the rubber estates of Ceylon, where elephants are often employed to fell rubber trees. The lateral roots of the trees are cut through with an axe and elephants are put on to push the trees over.

Do Only His Share

"Watch an elephant dealing with a tree that has only had its roots partially cut. His trunk will go up and he will advance to the tree, push his head forward and give a couple of experimental shoves. Then back he will go a step or two and turn his head away. Nothing, not even the snarl, will persuade him to push again until a coolie with an axe has been summoned and those roots have been properly cut through.

"The elephant's long memory is well known and is another sign of his exceptional intelligence. Cases have been known of elephants being ill-treated by mahouts and not seeing them again for years, but when eventually brought face to face with the offenders they have remembered them at once.

"In one case on record a circus elephant, a big Indian animal, took the law into his own hands and trampled his old enemy to death within a minute of the man's entrance into his stall. Yet he had not set eyes on the hated mahout for over twenty years.

"It is when captive elephants are ill, however, that their intelligence is most strikingly revealed. Even a pet dog is often extremely difficult to deal with when in pain. Yet cases have been known of elephants permitting their molar teeth to be extracted with hammer and crowbar without any show of resistance."

Noise Cause of Loss of Temper; Affects Hearing

The first effect of noise is disturbance of excitement and irritation, which have consequences of many kinds in conduct, a scientist advised the Academy of Medicine, says the New York World-Telegram.

Psychically noises cause loss of temper and play a part in quarrels. In attempts to overcome the effect of noise, great strain is put upon the nervous system, leading to neurasthenic and psychasthenic states.

Long before the emotions are disturbed, certain changes take place, such as heightened pulse rate, heightened blood pressure and some irregularities in heart rhythm.

In the light of the observations and opinions of scientific authorities, we must accept the fact that hearing is definitely affected in those persons who constantly are exposed to loud noises.

According to a general estimate, sixty to eighty per cent of the population has ear trouble caused by mechanical noise. Very loud noise has a disruptive action, in addition to fatigue effect.

Mourns His Wager on Scholasticism

Milwaukee, Wis.—It is extremely hazardous—and usually costly—to gamble on scholastic ability, A. J. Sievers, lecturer in accounting at Marquette university learned.

He gambled with his night class in certified public accounting last fall, betting that not one of the members would pass all of the state examinations in one sitting.

Two passed, and Sievers gave a dinner for the entire class. Twenty-four hungry students attended the banquet.

TERA Confirms Hudson Status

New York, Dec. 17 (AP)—The state temporary relief administration said today its investigation had confirmed the charges which led to suspension of relief reimbursements to Hudson, N. Y.

Reimbursements were halted December 4 and the TERA said today it was likely no further action would be taken unless the administration of relief in Hudson is corrected. It was charged that those receiving relief were selected on hearsay and amounts were fixed in a haphazard and irregular manner.

The report of Alden Bevier, district director at Albany, who investigated the charges, probably will be considered at the next meeting of the TERA governing board, the date of which has not been set.

Auto Strike Grows In Scope Today

(By The Associated Press)

Strike tension in the automobile industry, already beset by walkout of glass workers and wheel makers, increased today with picketing of a Detroit cushion and upholstery plant.

Trade observers in Wall Street estimated some 75,000 workers were out in 11 major strikes now under way, the principal ones being in the maritime shipping and automobile industries.

The new picketing appeared at the

Rapids to Entertain The Ulster Firemen

The meeting of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen will be held at the rooms of Rapid Hose, Home street, instead of at Cornell engine house, a member of the Rapids announced today.

"We will have the honor of entertaining the county firemen," he said, "please make a correction on the announcement made Wednesday, so there will be no confusion."

Edward goes, but the government is doing something for those Welsh coal miners.
